County Sligo Golf Club

A must-play on the Wild Atlantic Way.

GolfDigest

World's 100 Greatest Golf Courses

Nestled along Ireland's untamed Atlantic coastline, County Sligo Golf Club at Rosses Point is one of the country's most revered links.

Rich in history, yet alive with the energy of modern golf, the club offers dramatic landscapes, first-class hospitality, and a deep-rooted sense of place.

Designed by the legendary Harry Colt, currently working with Mackenzie & Ebert, this championship course invites discerning travellers and golf groups alike to discover a true Irish gem.

A course carved by earth,
wind and water, a true
championship test of golf.
Situating in the most stunning part of Ireland,
in the picturesque seaside village of Rosses Point, Co. Sligo.

County Sligo Golf Club

“always a different course,
always a different challenge.”

A legacy

Walk in the footsteps of Major Champions

West of Ireland Champions

In 1994, Pádraig Harrington won the West of Ireland Championship, marking his first major amateur title and a key step in his rise to professional golf.

At just 15, Rory McIlroy became the youngest winner of the West of Ireland Championship in 2005 at County Sligo Golf Club, marking an early highlight in his rise to golfing stardom.

Shane Lowry won the West of Ireland Championship in 2008, showcasing his talent with a strong final victory at County Sligo Golf Club. This win was a key milestone early in his promising amateur career.
